Get informed early

We strongly suggest that you research the exchange programs as early as possible (about 1,5 years prior to the planned stay abroad) to avoid any troubles in meeting the deadline. It is your responsibility to check the partner university's websites to make sure that you will be able to realistically pursue your academic goals there. You can find reports from former exchange students and other information materials on the International Office's website as well as the Student Portal. Additional short-notice calls for applications for study exchange or scholarship programs, as well as information sessions, group advising and similar events will also be published on the IO's website.

Who can apply?

University of Freiburg students from all disciplines can apply, with the exception of medicine (medical students can apply for a study or research stay in Nagoya only) and heavy restrictions for law students. In Hongkong, Singapore and Jerusalem, English-taught study programs are available. At all other universities, the focus is on language courses; a regular study program in the native language is only possible if the applicant exhibits excellent knowledge of the respective language. In some cases, supplementary English-language classes may be offered to exchange students.

The application

Students wishing to participate in the Freiburg Global Exchange programs must be enrolled in a degree-seeking study program at the University of Freiburg at the time of the application and for the entirety of the stay abroad. Please note that within the Freiburg Global Exchange, you typically apply for the respective region and not for a specific university. On the required preference list, you will indicate which universities you would like to attend, accompanied by a brief explanatory statement. Your preferences will be considered in the selection process, however, an appropriate placement cannot be guaranteed.

The application must be submitted to the International Office and should include all of the below listed documents. All documents must be submitted in English (see below for exceptions). Official application forms can be found under "Auslandsaufenthalte" in the Study Portal's download center. Please complete the application on a computer and submit one paper copy of each document, one-sided prints only. Do not use folders, transparent plastic sleeves, paper-clips, staples or any other type of binding.
